DECREE FROM WII

This Was Shady Steeplechasing. This Was Shady Steeplechasing.
Criticism was general throughout the track after the running of the steeplechase, and Gallagher was universally condemned for his ride on the favorite. The second time round Crockett was easily in command of the situation, but Gallagher was seemingly content to dunce attendance to Phantom. Ray, on the latter, and Gallagher, held a conversation athwart saddles, and the teta-tete ended with Ray bringing Phantom alongside the favorite, born taking the last jump like a team. At the point Ben Crockett, in the estimation of all could have been lengths ahead. Gallagher's apathy was not removed until they hit the stretch when the fleeter flat runner Phantom took the lead and won. It was a shady cross-country transaction.

Even in the third Tace the "get-away

Broadcloth Is Bid Up. Broadcloth is Bid Up.

Broadcloth winner of the fourth race, entered to be sold for $1,000, was bid up to $2,500 and was saved to owner brake by Trainer Wishard bidding the extra $5. The odds-on favorite, Broadsloth, won the event cleverly by two lengths from Grenada, which was a different horse to-day, Grenade had Finn up. In his recent essays B. Smith, not a wonder as an equine navigator, has piloted the McCormick "stake" winner. Broadcloth had the foot throughout and Grenade was just as much better over the rest. Ebony, which came from the rear in the stretch, snatched third position by a head.

late this afternoon there was a spectacular raid, which shows that there are still enough of men in the busy section of downtown New York to indicate the poolrooms are busy as ever. This, despite the assertion of the race track magnates that the poolrooms are down and out.

Gettling off second to a good start, Robo assumed the lead, alternating in distance from one to two lengths. Consideration, off third, kept the winner company, three lengths ahead of Colossal. In this Indian file order the scramble was run to the finish. Parkville, with the discriminating "Jack" Martin in the saddle, got a leisurely ride and appeared to relish the brief outing, evidently solely intended for the chestnut as an exercise trot.
